Game Purchase Permission and Controls

Permission to play has a separate purchase boundary.

A spoken rule needs an adult-owned payment setup.

Hypothetical example: a parent confirms the child's intended profile, sets the documented purchase control and explains that each proposed purchase still needs the agreed approval.

01 Translate game currency into the actual decision

Identify the game's real purchase and household boundary.

Game and device

Real-money offer being considered

Current play and purchase permissions

02 Check the actual account and controls

Review the actual profile and platform controls.

Profile actually used

Official control instructions

Selected setting and known scope

Game Purchase Permission and Controls / Review & follow-through

03 Decide the rule children can follow

Explain the permission rule the child can use.

Approval adult and decision route

Budget versus purchase permission

Child's action when adult is unavailable

04 Review actual requests and transactions

Check requests and transactions without buying a test.

Request or transaction evidence

Unexpected charge support action

Next review after game or account changes