Read Isaiah 58 Before Adding a Religious Practice to an Unchanged Wrong - working notes

One situation. Clear facts. An honest next step.

Read Isaiah 58's words about fasting alongside the conduct it condemns and the care it calls for. Address a wrong within your responsibility rather than treating a religious activity as its substitute.

Hypothetical example: A parent adding devotional time asks about the real evening workload, accepts an agreed cleanup responsibility and completes it without claiming a spiritual reward.

01 Hear the question the people ask

Read the fasting complaint beside the conduct Isaiah 58 names.

People's question

Conduct condemned

Fasting question to seek help with

02 Follow the burdens the passage names

Trace its calls to release burdens and provide care through the chapter.

Burden named

Care called for

Chapter ending to revisit

Read Isaiah 58 Before Adding a Religious Practice to an Unchanged Wrong - working notes / Review & follow-through

03 Find the wrong a new activity could leave untouched

Identify one adult contradiction within your actual responsibility.

My actual conduct

Person affected

Fact I need to hear

04 Make the repair concrete enough to be checked

Agree and complete a concrete repair without claiming a reward contract.

Agreed repair

Adult owner and timing

What actually changed