The Pre-Rotation Station Review

Keep unresolved concerns visible before the group moves.

An organizational review records responsible decisions under governing rules; it does not certify physical or medical safety.

Example: a waiting area overlaps another station's exit. The responsible coach holds the rotation, changes the arrangement under program rules, and explains the reviewed boundary before giving the release instruction.

01 Name the authority

Use the actual program requirements.

Station activity and group

Responsible qualified decision role

Governing rules to consult

Required stop or escalation route

02 Review the space

Observe the actual movement layout.

Entry and waiting arrangement

Working and exit arrangement

Overlap or access concern

Responsible space decision

The Pre-Rotation Station Review / Review & follow-through

03 Check resources and support

Confirm required coverage and suitability.

Equipment concern and assessor

Approved supervising adult

Required athlete support

Coverage plan if adult leaves

04 Record the decision

Preserve unresolved concerns honestly.

Unresolved item and status

Correction and person confirming

Authorized hold or release decision

Condition requiring a recheck